

Substitution Drills for Self Study – practicing with -po

---

Ман инро дидам ... (Юҳанно 1:34) – I saw this.

Ман туро ... дидам. (Юҳанно 1:48) – I saw you.

Make some more sentences using “I saw”, for example:

- I saw him.
- I saw them.
- I saw the dog.
- I saw the books.        etc.

Can you make sentences by changing the subject and/or object?

- You saw me.
- You saw them.
- We saw them.
- I saw the house.
- They saw the car.
- She saw us.                etc.

Мо Масеҳро ёфтем. (Юҳанно 1:41) – We found Christ.

Make some other sentences using “we found”, for example:

- We found you.
- We found them.
- We found these.
- We found the house.
- We found the cat.        etc.

Can you make some more sentences by changing the subject and/or object?

- I found Christ.
- I found these.
- They found me.
- You found me.                etc.

You can turn these sentences into questions by simply adding a question mark and changing the intonation. Write some questions, for example:

- Did you find Christ?
- Did she find them?        etc.

Шумо чиро мекобед? (Юҳанно 1:38) – What are you looking for?

Try making some other sentences by changing the verb, for example:

- What are you eating?
- What do you see? (What are you seeing?)
- What are you studying?
- What do you like? (What are you liking?)

Can you change the subject of the sentence?

- What am I looking for?
- What are you (ту) looking for?
- What is he looking for?
- What are we looking for?
- What are they looking for?

How about changing the subject to actual people (or animals):

- What is the girl looking for?
- What is the dog looking for?
- What are the men looking for?

Now make some sentences by changing both the subject and the verb:

- What is the girl eating?
- What am I studying?
- What are they cooking?
